Orasco was recruited to help out with the event by his mother and his girlfriend, both of whom work at the store. Kmart donated $5 to the local DARE program for each racer who participated. Race against drugs Event will aid local DARE program

While Paul Tracy was racing to victory around the new track at Gateway International Raceway May 24, some young drivers with similar ambitions were trying their hands around the parking lot at Kmart in Granite City.

The event was a part of Kmart's "Kids Race Against Drugs" program benefiting the Granite City DARE Program.

Kmart set up a track on its parking lot for kids ages 7-12 years to race against the clock on safety-modified lawn tractors.

There was no cost to participants, who received free T-shirts, hats and a certificate listing their race time. They also received information about drug abuse prevention.

Legislature adjourns Lawmakers dwell on failed legislation

By Bob Slate

The 1997 Illinois General Assembly adjourned early Sunday morning after legislators adopted a new state budget overhauling the welfare system and providing emergency funding for some school districts.

But a permanent school funding plan that was passed in the House failed to garner enough support in the Senate and died — at least for now. So did proposed legislation that would have reformed campaign finance, measures that would have granted working men and women time off for family emergencies and a proposal to deregulate electrical utilities.

While the new budget does address welfare reform in the state and provides emergency funding for a number of schools, East expressed disappointment about the legislation that failed to make it to the governor's desk.

"I am disappointed that the Senate's Republican leadership felt these issues were not important enough for consideration this year," said State Rep. Glenn Bradford, D-Glen Carbon, regarding the electrical utility deregulation plan, several campaign finance initiatives and legislation assisting working families.

State Rep. Steve Davis, D-Bethalto, proposed much of the working family legislation.

Prostitution sting nets 10

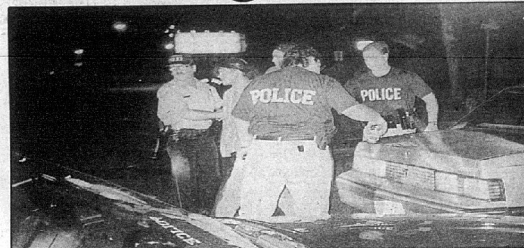

By Bob Slate

Downtown Granite City was a center of commerce Friday night. While the cars that usually line the streets weekdays were absent, except for a few near the taverns scattered around the area, a number of other customers — including individuals from St. Louis, Wood River, Troy, Collinsville, St. Jacob, and East St. Louis — visited the downtown area with cash in hand, looking for services.

Unfortunately for those potential customers, they were seeking prostitutes at a time when the Granite City Police Department was conducting a sting operation.

Ten men were arrested and charged with soliciting for prostitution, a misdemeanor, between 8:30 p.m. and midnight Friday.

"This operation was in response to reports of increased prostitution activity in the downtown area," Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen said. "We also want to discourage their male customers from engaging in this activity."

Police hold a suspect arrested Friday in a prostitution sting in downtown Granite City.

"If the girls didn't have customers, we wouldn't have a problem." An undercover female officer walked the street near the intersection of Madison Avenue and 17th Street. As potential customers approached and offered money for sex, she gave a pre-arranged signal to officers who were waiting nearby. (See STING, Page 2A)

The circus is coming to town! Ten performances of Shrine Circus slated for area in next week

By Kimberly Haas
Staff writer

Look for the big top tent this weekend and have a guaranteed good time at the annual Shrine Circus.

Ten performances of the circus are scheduled for the area in the next 10 days. And the annual Shrine parade will be rolling through Granite City today.

St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights will house the big top on its parking lot Friday through Sunday, with two performances each day.

Performances will be at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. during the three-day show.

Elephants, performing pigs, a disappearing tiger, clowns and trapeze acts will highlight the show, said John Craver, administrator of the Aina Temple in East St. Louis.

With the big top, the shows will go on as scheduled rain or shine, Craver said.

"Another nice thing about the big top is that it's on asphalt. You don't have to worry about the weather," he said.

After this weekend, the big top will move to the Casino Queen parking lot in East St. Louis. Performances will be held

Glen Carbon goes online

Village's new web page is up and running

GLEN CARBON — The village made the leap into cyberspace last week with the introduction of its new web site.

The home page has been running on the Internet several weeks, but consultant Jerry Graklanoff presented the first official showing at Tuesday's Village Board meeting.

The site's address, <http://www.ezl.com/tilldelencarb>, sports the familiar black silhouette of a miner.

Mayor Ron Foster applauded the effort as an easy way to increase communication in a town where communication was a major issue in the last election.

"Half the houses in the village have computers, and they can key right in," he said.

The site will offer text and pictures of the town's background and history plus a locator road map for out-of-towners.

A section on what's new will keep residents informed about major projects such as the Meridian Road improvements that can be updated with new pictures as the work continues.

Familiar images of the village from the covered bridge to the bike trail to memorials are readily available, but after Tuesday's preview, officials suggested adding a little text to explain the views.

A fourth section focuses on the village officials, beginning with a pictorial roster of who's who. Meetings and special events will be listed in a separate section, complete with agendas and minutes.

set up nearby in unmarked cars. The officers then converged on the suspects, arrested them and transported them to the police station for processing.

"Summer time is here and we intend to continue to step up our efforts," Ruebhausen said.

Arrested during the sting and charged with soliciting for prostitution were:

• Mark Dwayne Pellazari, 32, of the 700 block of 26th Street, arrested at 8:30 p.m. Pellazari allegedly offered an undercover female police officer $20 for oral sex;

• Dennis J. Tenllado, 58, of Collinsville, arrested at 8:45 p.m. Tenllado allegedly offered an undercover female police officer $20 for oral sex;

• Everett W. Johnson Jr., 28, of Wood River, arrested at 9:01 p.m. Johnson allegedly offered an undercover female police officer $20 for a sexual favor;

• Donald D. Clark, 45, of East St. Louis, arrested at 9:30 p.m. Clark allegedly offered an undercover female police officer "plenty of cash" for sex;

• Emmett T. Higdon, 54, of Fairview Heights, arrested at 10:12 p.m. Higdon allegedly offered an undercover female police officer $25 for oral sex;

• Elton W. Oden, 41, of the 2900 block of Morris Street, and Michael D. Hendrix, 41, of the 2200 block of Edison Avenue, arrested at 10:50 p.m. Hendrix allegedly offered an undercover female police officer "plenty of money" to have sex with both him and Oden; Hendrix was also charged with obstructing justice. He allegedly gave police a false name — the name of an auxiliary police officer — when he was arrested. When his true identity was learned it was discovered that he was wanted for violating his parole, according to a police report;

• Rudy P. Riva Jr., 27, of St. Louis, arrested at 11:16 p.m. Riva allegedly offered an undercover female police officer an amount of money from his pocket in exchange for oral sex;

• Kevin A. Gleason, 39, of St.

Jacob, arrested at 11:45 p.m. Gleason allegedly offered an undercover female police officer $25 for sexual intercourse; and

• Paul Mier Perdue, 37, of Troy, arrested at 11:56 p.m. Perdue allegedly offered a female undercover police officer $40 to go to a hotel and have oral sex with him.

During the sting operation, police also identified several known prostitutes who appeared to be working the downtown area, but did not make any arrests because none were caught offering services.

Get your kicks on... Festival resurrects scenes along Route 66

Edwardsville's once-familiar stops along historic Old Route 66 will play a major role in Festival 66 celebrations June 7-8 in City Park.

Hilltop Restaurant on Legate's Curve, the Mobil Station on West Street and the World War II Roll of Honor in the park have been resurrected, among others, from old photographs for special Festival 66 posters and postcards.

The scenes recall the city's place on the Mother Road, and the poster follows a sequence drivers would have seen as they headed south from Hamel through town, past the high school and south toward the old Chain of Rocks Bridge across the Mississippi River into north St. Louis.

The posters and individual cards will be sold as souvenirs, along with Festival 66 T-shirts that put Edwardsville on the map.

"We tried to pull the shirts together with the car as an image of the past," graphic designer Sherrie Hickman of Inland Design said.

The city will be the final stop this year on the Illinois Route 66 Association motor tour that begins where the road starts in Chicago. More than 250 vintage or touring cars will roll into town June 8 for the final day of the city's festival.

"The shirt marks The Mother Road through Illinois and Get Your Kicks on Route 66. We wanted to make it look a little

"They are all places you would pass on Route 66, and we tried to plan them as postcards that could be cut and sold individually."

— Sherrie Hickman

nostalgic but attractive to the people in the caravan at the festival," she said.

The postcards and posters came from photographs in private and museum collections that were reproduced then colored using a computer. The results are familiar scenes of the library or the high school or businesses, including storm damage along the road.

As the artists were working, many people recognized the scenes and some of the people pictured in them, Hickman said.

"They are all places you would pass on Route 66, and we tried to plan them as postcards that could be cut and sold individually," she said.

The scenes were picked from among several hundred sites gathered for the project.

All the souvenir items are selling around town at Target, Inland Group, YMCA, Comfort Inn and the Edwardsville Library. T-shirts are $12 to $13.50 in advance and $13 to $15 during the festival. Postcards are 25 cents or five for $1. Posters are $5.

Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 7, with a bicycle ramble. Ronald McDonald's stage will offer a round of acts at 1 p.m., and KLOV Oldies will broadcast live from the festival beginning at 5 p.m.

A car cruise from Steak 'n Shake to the A&W Drive In restaurant will get under way at 7 p.m., along with music by Dogs Attract Lightning. The Orbits will take the bandstand at 9 p.m.

On Sunday, a vintage and street car show will open at noon, and the Edwardsville Mundy Band will be tuned up and playing when the cavalcade of Route 66 cars pull in about 3 p.m.

Festivities also will include children's activities, plus food and music centered in the park.

Albert Cassens, 85, veteran Route 66 business owner, will join the Route 66 Hall of Fame during induction ceremonies at 4:30 p.m. The official Hall of Fame banquet honoring all inductees will be held in Lincoln the night before.

Trust fund for athlete is growing

By Jason White
Staff writer

A trust fund for Mark Birlew has received overwhelming support from Dupu and surrounding communities, fund organizers say.

So far, the fund has raised more than $8,000 and it's still growing, said Susan Sager, a member of the committee that has been established to organize fund-raising events.

"It's just been really successful," Susan Sager said. "We're still plugging away and have lots of ideas for the future."

Sager said the goal for the fund is open-ended. "We're doing so well we'd just like to keep it going," she said.

Sager said a May 17 fundraiser, broadcast by WIL one week after Birlew's accident, earned more than $3,000. Another recent fund-raiser was held at the opening of Gateway International Raceway in Madison. Students from Dupu High School and members of the baseball team washed cars and were paid by officials at the race track.

Birlew was paralyzed after being thrown from an all-terrain vehicle on May 10. "He seems to be dealing with things pretty good," Sager said.

For more information about the trust fund or upcoming events, call Susan Sager at 286-4354, Bob and Joan's at 286-9690, Susie Turner at 286-3713 or athletic director Richard Bright at 286-0238.

when they can not afford to work, but they can not afford not to work either."

Davis also proposed Flex Time and Family Leave bills and a College Affordability Plan to address the concerns of working people. The Flex Time bill would have provided employees 24 hours over the course of a year to handle family emergencies or attend important family events, Davis said. The Family Leave bill would have given working individuals time to handle family medical emergencies.

"Men and women in Illinois are working more and more hours every year to make ends meet," Davis said. "In turn, they have less time to spend with their families. This legislation takes a small step toward addressing those issues."

The College Affordability plan would have offered parents a $500 tax credit for ever child enrolled at a university or community college in the state.

Davis did not give up hope for his legislation, and said he is confident it will be revisited in the fall Vet Session in October or next spring.

Bradford, who voted against the school funding plan devised by Republican Gov. Jim Edgar and the Democratic leadership, noted that the fiscal year 1998 budget includes $253 million for schools.

"No school district in the state will lose money as a result of the plan," Bradford said. "This is the largest funding increase for schools ever, and we were able to do it without raising taxes."

The Governor's proposal, which passed the House but was killed in the Senate, would have hiked personal income taxes 25 percent and reduced local property taxes.

Her efforts have made a difference

By Ron Wisdom
Staff writer

They may never know the extent of her affection or dedication, but countless animals have food to eat and a place to sleep because of one Collinsville woman.

For 12 years, Margaret Pittmann has collected money for her "babies" at the Madison County Humane Society.

"I'm there to help the animals," Pittmann said. "That's the whole point. I'm there to do for my animals, that's all."

For her continued dedication, Pittmann, 81, was selected as one of this year's "Hardee's Hometown Heroes."

Twenty-five people will be honored Thursday, June 5, at Fontbonne College for their contributions to society. The award is sponsored by Hardee's Restaurants, the Suburban Journals and KPLR-TV (Channel 11).

Pittmann said she will be joined by two former Madison County Humane Society presidents at the event.

Although Pittmann said she is very honored to receive the award, forgotten animals are still her main priority.

She has brought in more than $10,000 for the shelter over 12 years by collecting money around town in miniature "dog houses."

Pittmann also collects newspapers, which she delivers each week to the shelter. The paper is used to line pet cages.

"In fact, I've got three big bags in the car right now that I need to take down there," she said Friday. "They shred them and put it in the cages so it's easier to keep them clean for the little babies."

An avid bingo player, Pittmann collects aluminum cans to raise money.

"When I go to bingo, everybody saves their cans and gives them to me because they know where it's going," she said. "They know it's not going for me; it's going for my babies."

She pulls the tabs off the cans and sends them to a group that raises money for children with incurable diseases. The cans are cashed in and the profits go to the shelter.

Pittmann has a collection of stuffed, carved and molded creatures adorning her home, but live animals mean the most to her.

"I feed my birds every day, year-round," she said. "I've got a sidewalk in my back yard and when it snows, I get out there and shovel it off so they have a place to eat."

"I put birdseed out there and popcorn. I love to watch them eat. The squirrels and the rabbits are out there, too."

Pittmann said she will continue to care for her friends as long as she is able.

Danforth to speak at ceremony honoring heroes

Each year, Hardee's Restaurants, the Suburban Journals and KPLR-TV (Channel 11) honor local "heroes" in the community.

Dubbed "Hardee's Hometown Heroes," the program gives recognition to people, not for dramatic rescue or military operations in far-off countries, but for a different kind of heroism. It honors people who have contributed something positive to society, who have overcome great difficulties, who demonstrate courage in living each day, who help others.

This year, 25 Hometown

Heroes, nominated by family and friends, will be recognized at a special ceremony at Fontbonne College, 6800 Wydown Blvd.

Former U.S. Sen. John Danforth will make the presentations to the honorees at noon Thursday, June 5, in the Fine Arts Theatre at the college. The public is invited.

On the eighth day, God created basketball.

I'll admit that you'll be hard-pressed to find such a teaching in the Bible, but I like to think that while the Creator was spinning this universe into existence, he was also, soon thereafter, spinning a basketball on his divine index finger.

To think of basketball as God's gift to man may be theologically suspect, but it doesn't change the way I feel about it.

For those who, like me, can't wait for the end of summer and the beginning of high school hoops, there is good news from Keith Pickett, director of the Coca-Cola/KMOX Shootout. Last Wednesday, Pickett announced pairings for the 17th annual affair, to be held Dec. 11 at the Kiel Center in St. Louis. The all-day, 18-team affair will feature eight Illinois squads, including the Edwardsville boys and the Belleville East girls.

Chicago Whitney Young will contend for the mythical national title in 1997-98, and Galesburg will feature one of the most sought after seniors in the country, 6-6 Roderick "Baby Shaq" Thompson, a transfer from Chicago Carver, who averaged 24 points and 15 boards last season.

Also representing Illinois among boys entries will be Edwardsville, which comes back loaded, and Centralia, one of the most successful basketball programs in the

turnaround on track

PREP FOOTBALL

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

There is one thing Collinsville High football fans should know about new head coach Tim Kane — he loves a challenge.

Kane was hired last Wednesday to take the reins of the program from Jackie Jackson, who resigned in March to take over as head coach at Plainfield High.

The challenge the 28-year-old Kane faces is turning the program into a consistent winner.

Before Jackson's arrival three years ago, the Kahoks had typically been one of the Metro East's doormats. Jackson helped change that image. Last fall, he guided the Kahoks to their first playoff berth in school history. Collinsville (6-4) also posted its first winning season since 1975.

Kane was in the process of turning the program around at Knoxville High, a Class 2A school and a member of the Olympic Conference, where he was the head coach the last three years.

"I took over a program that was very down at the time and had experienced three losing seasons," said Kane, who will teach biology and integrated science at CHS. "My first year was obviously very tough (1-8). We didn't win very much but we changed the attitude and the work ethic. The last two years we were 5-4 and each year we lost two or three games in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter to just barely miss out on the playoffs.

In fact, Kane experienced almost the same kind of turnaround in Knoxville that Jackson did in Collinsville.

"I've had a few people tell me that," Kane said. "I think the opportunity to be coaching at that size school, that type of facility and everything it has to offer is very exciting to me. Familywise, I have a wife (Deb) and a 1-year-old daughter (Taylor). To be able to live in that area, it has a lot to offer. It is very progressive. It is a growing area and obviously very close to St. Louis."

The opportunity to coach in the Southwestern Conference was also a large drawing card for Kane.

Janek: Title is in reach for Badgers

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

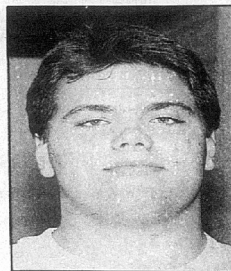

With summer just gearing up for a long, hot run, few people have college football on their minds. But one does: Chris Janek.

Janek, a Granite City High School graduate and a member of the Wisconsin Badgers' impressive defensive unit, was at the girls soccer sectional championship game on Saturday, but his mind was on the coming football campaign.

When the Badgers start their run for the Big Ten football title this fall, the second-year starter will once more be right in the thick of things. And loving every minute.

Janek, the starting nose guard for coach Barry Alvarez, sees this year's conference race as wide open, with Wisconsin standing as good a chance as any team to walk away with all the marbles.

"We lost about 10 solid players — they all went pro," said Janek. "But everybody in the conference has been depleted to a similar degree. Teams are about even. Plus, several schools — Indiana, Illinois and others — have new coaches this year, new systems to learn, and that's always a difficult transition for teams."

Chris Janek

"I think we're going to be real good, even great, despite the players we must replace," he said. "I think the quality of players we have returning and the quality of players we have stepping into to fill new roles give us an advantage. The Big Ten title is definitely within our reach. There is no doubt in my mind that we can win it."

The run to that title begins in less than three months for Janek and the rest of the Badgers.

From June 16 through Aug. 1, all players are in camp for summer conditioning and weight training, an intensive serious threat of the morning on a throw-in from the left touch line at 6:07 of the first half.

The strong throw was charged, but misjudged, by Roth, who was in goal for the first time since May 14. It sailed over Roth's head to Amanda Nizinski, who was guarding the right goal post. Nizinski played the ball to the ground and cleared it from the box, effectively ending the threat.

Less than four minutes later, at 9:50, the Lady Warriors were on the board. Jaime Dellbringe sent the ball to Michelle Montgomery who passed it right back to Dellbringe on the goal line. Dellbringe jobbed a pass across the goal mouth where Chrystal Timmons headed it in for a 1-0 GCHS lead.

When Granite coach Gene Baker sent Ismahan Mohsen — who had returned from a bout with bronchitis — onto the field following the first goal, the complexion of the game changed completely. As always, the fiery midfielder and important part of the team's preparation.

"I'm 290 pounds now," said Janek. "That's OK for this year. They're happy, and I'm happy with where I'm at. But the coaches want me to be 300 by my junior year."

From Aug. 2-15, Alvarez holds hated two-day practices.

"They're killers," said Janek of those sessions in the heat of opportunity to play in one of the premier conferences in the state and definitely the premier conference in the southern half of the state, you are very excited made things happen, and the Lady Warriors took immediate control of the contest.

"Ismahan got us going," said Baker. "We lacked some intensity before she entered the game. She made a big difference."

"I'm feeling a lot better now," said Mohsen. "I went to the sauna this morning, and afterwards, my breathing was a lot better. I couldn't breathe the last game. But I had no problems this morning."

Dellbringe and Timmons teamed up again at 13:24. Roxie Simpson's direct free kick found a wide-open Dellbringe, who lobbed another pass on goal. Once more, Timmons was there to head it in, giving Granite a 2-0 advantage.

The score gave Timmons, who had netted the Lady Warriors only goal against Collinsville, three straight goals over two games.

"I've been playing well recently, my play is getting stronger each game," she said. "I'm finally getting my head balls in."

"Timmons had a great game at all the spots," Baker said. "She's playing extremely well."

summer. "But they serve a purpose. They get us ready for a very tough conference and non-conference schedule and for a really big season opener this year."

Wisconsin meets highly regarded Syracuse, with their sensational quarterback Donovon McNabb, in the televised Kick-off Classic to be held on Aug. 24 at Giants Stadium.

"McNabb is an awesome quarterback," said Janek. "I think it will come down to a contest between our exceptional about the opportunity," Kane said. "I am just glad to be a part of it. I am excited to see what we can do. It is obviously a challenge no matter where you are to be able to get the kids to play hard, play fundamentally sound and be competitive every week."

"One thing I am, I am just a competitor. It doesn't matter who we are playing, I want to play well and win."

Kane has been around the game his entire life. His father, Larry, was a head football coach for 30 years. His uncle, Kelly Kane, is the head coach at Monmouth College.

Kane, a graduate of Mattoon High and Millikin University, served one year as an assistant football coach at East Peoria and two years as an assistant at Centralia before taking over the Knoxville program.

Simpson's corner kick at 25:21 bounced into the goal after being bobbed twice by Panthers' goalie Kelly Irwin. The lead remained 3-0 into the closing minutes of the first half.

At 35:45, Michelle Montgomery took a text book pass from Erika Todd, moved passed a pair of defenders to the left of the goal and smoked one to the right of Irwin. The ball deflected off Irwin's outstretched arms and rolled into the right corner of the goal, making it 4-0 Lady Warriors.

With only 20 seconds left in the first half, the GCHS defense cleared the ball right to Colleen Irwin, who one-timed it from 28 yards, finding a narrow opening between a leaping Roth and the cross bar.

But Carrie Simpson's 16-footer past Irwin in the early minutes of the second half broke O'Fallon's back. Baker used bench players the rest of the way as the Lady Warriors coasted to the sectional championship.

"This was a very tough loss to a very good team," said Panthers' mentor Dave Ames. "Our game plan was not to give up anything early and to try to score ourselves. But we lost track of a player (Timmons), and it cost us. We can't do that and expect to win."

"I thought we'd take advantage of our size and speed better than we did against Granite, but we didn't," Ames said. "Part of it was that Granite didn't let us do it. They took us out of what we wanted to do."

Baker felt better about his squad's performance than he had after the Collinsville game on Thursday.

"This is more the type of game we're capable of having when we're executing," he said. "The girls did a nice job today. This was a good team win."

"We had good balance on offense. Dellbringe played well," he said. "Michelle Montgomery is very electric when she moves forward. When she's coming forward, things get going. Roxie Simpson did a very good job covering (Katie) Young. And both wing backs, Nizinski and Melissa Montgomery, were strong as usual. Our backfield has been solid all year. An senior midfield had more play today. It was definitely a team win."

Janek is especially high on Alvarez, who guided the Badgers to a Copper Bowl victory to cap off a successful campaign last season.

"He's truly a great coach," said Janek. "All of us believe in him and in his program. We know what he's trying to do, and we believe he can do it. We know that he can bring us a Big Ten championship."

national and on the upswing. But Lincoln's Raiders could be the team next year, bringing back a full house after a fine 25-3 season and a ranking of fifth in the final 1997 Associated Press regular season poll.

On the girls side, Belleville East, 26-4 a year ago, will be on hand as will state large school runner-up Taylorville, which returns every starter from last year's phenomenal 34-1 team.

Along with North Carolina, Illinois boasts the best senior class in the nation for the coming year. A class that will be well represented at the shootout.

Kansas City Pembroke Hill features the consensus no. 1 player in the nation for the coming season, 6-6 Jalton Rush. Rush will butt heads with Corey Maggette of Penick High School in Oak Park, Ill., in an early evening game.

Maggette, 6-6, averaged more than 20 points per game last year and led the Friars (22-6) to their first super-sectional appearance, where they lost to unbeaten Thornton 40-33.

Paintsville (Ky.) stand-out J. R. Van Hoose, 6-10, is tabbed as the top pivot man in the nation for the coming year. He must be contained by Lincoln (Ill.) in the next-to-the last game of the shootout.

Unlike last year, when the shootout expanded to two days and 22 teams, the affair reverts to its original one-day extravaganza.

Ticket prices and exact game times have not yet been determined, but the matchups are set.

*Belleville East (26-4) vs. Rosary (30-2) (girls).

*Ladue (18-10) vs. Concord Bishop Bradley (N.H.) (22-1) (boys).

*Edwardsville (23-5) vs. Milwaukee Vincent (24-3) (boys).

*Wildwood-LaFayette (Mo.) (24-5) vs. Galesburg (23-6) (boys).

*Gateway Tech (28-0) vs. Taylorville (34-1) (girls).

*Kansas City Pembroke Hill (32-0) vs. Oak Park Fenwick (23-6) (boys).

*Chicago Whitney Young (30-2) vs. Fort Lauderdale Dillard (26-4) (boys).

*Lincoln (Ill.) (25-3) vs. Paintsville (Ky.) (34-4) (boys).

*Centralia (22-6) vs. Cape Coral Mariner (Fla.) (27-6) (boys).

The Granite City Park District will sponsor a one-day trip on Thursday, July 10, to the village of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., located on the west bank of the Mississippi River, about 50 miles south of St. Louis. The oldest permanent settlement in the state provides a glimpse into a way of life that has long since disappeared. A step-on guide will explain some of the history of the town and two of the old homes, the Bolduc House and the Maison Guibourg, which will be highlighted. Both locations have courtyards, rose garden, herb and scented gardens as well as a large collection of antiques. Lunch will be served at the

For the peppiest flavor, check out the International Horseradish Festival from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday at Woodland Park on Highway 159 in Collinsville, Ill., the first time it is being held in June. Most people are familiar with horseradish after the root is shipped from the Midwestern mecca to a processing plant where it is mixed with salt and vinegar, then shipped to local stores and sold by the jar. The festival includes sacking, tossing, golfing and volleyball competitions with horseradish eating, bloody Mary and cooking contests, plus selection of Little Miss and Little Mister Horseradish. A local recipe for Carrot Salad is to blend 1/3 cup oil and 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice. Mix well with 1 pound carrots, peeled and grated; up to 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish, and 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Mix well, adding salt and pepper to taste.

Big Fat Tip

Enjoy mashed potatoes all summer. Add flavor to dried potato flakes for an easy, satisfying, almost no-fat dish. Heat 1 can (about 14 ounces) reduced-fat chicken broth and 1 can (14.5 ounces) diced tomatoes with garlic. Quickly stir in 2 cups instant potato flakes. Stir to blend well. If desired, garnish with sprigs of fresh parsley.

More fresh vegetable bags by the end of the year will hold information telling how to microwave them in their packaging. For best results, the fresh vegetable pieces should be sliced evenly. According to The Packer, a fresh food publication, one consideration is the difficulty of providing a clear plastic bag for the vegetables, because anti-fogging chemicals used on salad bags are not good for microwaving.

Not many island adventurers can afford the six months' pay and burrititis it costs to bring home a 200-pound shark lured from the sea. In fact, the deed pales against the ease, convenience and economy of bagging a variety of seafood at local markets.

It is exhilarating when the catch is for dinner tonight. It may surprise a fisherman who keeps a pond in his back yard to find the inexpensive catfish from the market he puts on his grill may have been farm-raised. It is the hero of many dinners at home and restaurants nationwide.

Catfish Jambalaya is pictured here for a spicy stew full of chunks of catfish and other spicy flavors. Serve it cooked with rice and add crusty bread, the way River

Run restaurant in Plainfield, Vt., offers it on its menu.

Pasta is a favorite in any combination, particularly in this generous recipe that adds artichoke hearts, red bell pepper, carrot and zucchini in a creamy sauce tossed with parmesan cheese.

Whitefish is a specific fish, as well as a general term. There are many firm, light-colored fish that can be grilled and served with a multitude of flavors. Any good seafood counter attendant can suggest this week's freshest, most flavorful catch.

In Festival Fish, grilled seafood flavor is enhanced with a spicy, tangy blend of peppery seasonings and a bit of citrus.

Seafood is delicate and cooks quickly, so it needs a little help to stay together on the grill. A wire mesh basket can be used, as can a grill rack whose openings are

LIVELY TASTE Mermaid Dips

Ring fresh vegetables or crackers around traditional dips made with surimi (imitation crab or other variety) seafood. Surimi does not need to be cooked. It is ready to use straight from the package or seafood counter.

Here are some tempting starters:

Crab Onion Dip: In medium bowl, combine 8 ounces surimi (imitation crab) seafood, 2 cups (16 ounces) sour cream, 1 package onion soup mix and 3 tablespoons bottled lemon juice. Mix well. Chill 30 minutes. Stir before serving. Makes about 2-1/2 cups.

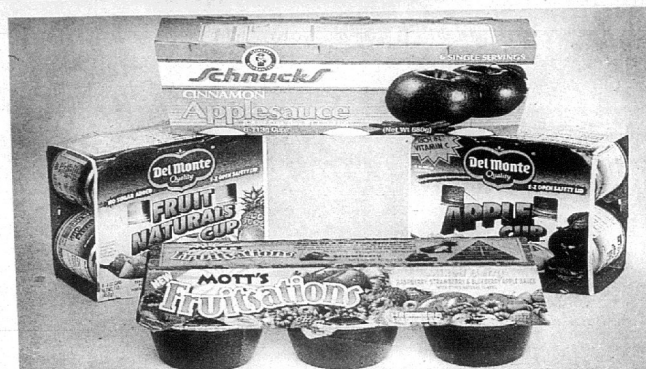

Seafood Spinach Dip: Sauté 2 cloves garlic, minced, in 1 tablespoon margarine 1 minute. Add 1/2 teaspoon crushed dried basil and 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper. Mix with 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed dry; 1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese and 8 ounces surimi (imitation crab) seafood. Heat through, stirring frequently.

Simple Seafood Spread: Spread 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese on serving platter. Cover with 1 jar seafood cocktail sauce. Top with 8 ounces surimi (imitation crab) seafood, 1 can (2-1/4 ounces) chopped black olives, 1 medium green bell pepper, chopped, and 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese. Chill 30 minutes.

Test Run

Lunch box can hold a refreshing portion of fruit in many styles, old and new.

Lunch packers look for fruit varieties in cupful

The lunch packer who looks for something more refreshing or alternative to salty, dry chips has more opportunity to include fruit, with the addition of pre-packed fruits and sauces in four-ounce cups with pop-open tops.

Testers, all adults, gave their opinion on a sampling of products — Mott's Fruit-nuts, a blend of berries and applesauce; Del Monte diced apples in light syrup and mixed fruits in juice, and Schenck's cinnamon applesauce. Other varieties are provided in each line.

"Mott's berry sauce is delicious. It is smooth, with hardly any seeds — which I like. It has a bright, attractive color and is tangy with strong fruit flavor. You know it's the berries," a taster said, smiling at her pun.

Her sentiments were echoed by a tester who is selective in what he is willing to try.

"The strawberry applesauce is a great taste tester. My sister used to eat this all the time in college. It is the ultimate in apple sauces," he said.

A mom who packs snacks for her children gave a thumbs-up to the fruit cups.

"I buy the fruit cups regularly for my son's lunch since he has braces and cannot eat fresh apples, pears and the like," she said.

There was debate over serving size. While one called it "just right," another preferred something more generous.

"Their quality is fine, but my quibble is over them only coming in half-cup portions. I guess this is better than nothing or chips, or as an extra with chips."

It would be good for a younger child, but it isn't enough for me and is only a half-serving of fruit for an adult, which makes it pretty pricey. I'll pack an apple or orange myself," she said.

The quality of the fruit cups received compliments. One liked the diced apples as an alternative to applesauce.

"There is lots of fruit packed into the fruit cups. It delivers what it shows on the package. I miss the cherries of fruit cocktail, but the pears have a nice firm consistency and good flavor," she said.

Schenck's cinnamon applesauce received compliments, with the word "refreshing" used often.

"The texture made the consistency very good," a taster said. "It's not watery and has good apple flavor. I'm not a cinnamon lover, so I'd probably prefer the plainer applesauce, which I'd expect to be good, too." Another said he would look for it on the shelf.

Mushroom hunt begins and ends in supermarket

By CAROL SCHLITT

The popularity and availability of fresh mushrooms with exotic names, shapes and colors is soaring. Once unheard-of varieties — such as portobello, shiitake, porcini and enoki — now have a regular home in the produce section of the neighborhood grocery store. Exotic mushrooms ranked first among the 20 currently trendy foods, according to a recent National Restaurant Association survey.

With Americans demanding new tastes and unusual ingredients, exotic mushrooms fit the bill. According to the American Mushroom Institute, sales of all specialty mushrooms have increased more than 100 percent in the past five years.

Until recently, the only way to get unusual mushrooms was to hunt them in the wild or shop specialty stores and pay a premium price. Now many exotic mushrooms are featured for the average consumer and restaurant patron.

Their versatility as a substitute in any recipe calling for standard white mushrooms and their full-bodied taste make them a natural ingredient to try when experimenting with variations of traditional dishes. Here's a run-down on three exotic mushrooms available in most markets:

Portobello: The portobello, which means "giant" in Italian, lives up to the name. Its dark tan-colored cap can measure six to eight inches wide. This mushroom, known for its meaty flavor and texture, is especially delicious grilled. Of all the exotic mushrooms, portobellos are the most versatile, because the whole mushroom, including the stem, can be used.

Shiitake: Shiitake mushrooms are not only delicious, but are revered in Asia for their purported medicinal value. Some people claim shiitakes contain a compound that fights off cancer and viruses. It is certain they are high in fiber and are a good source of niacin.

Morel: Once only available to the skilled mushroom hunter in the wild, morels now are grown commercially. This delicate mushroom has a honeycomb cap and hollow stem. While most mushrooms can be consumed raw, morels always should be cooked, because raw mushrooms can lead to intestinal upsets. As if Mother Nature planned it this way, only cooking releases the wonderful flavor and texture of morels.

Here is a quick, easy recipe to try that calls for portobello mushrooms. It is also delicious — and considerably less expensive — made with white mushrooms.

Carol Schlitt is Extension educator, nutrition and wellness, at the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, Edwardsville Extension Center.

CHICKEN BREASTS IN MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 4 oz. portobello mushrooms, sliced
- 1½ tsp. oil
- 2 boneless chicken breasts
- 2 tsp. flour
- 1 cup chicken broth

Over medium heat, sauté mushrooms in oil 5 minutes. Add chicken. Cook until done. Remove chicken to platter and keep warm. Add flour to pan, stirring to coat in remaining oil. Add chicken broth. Stir and cook until thickened.

'Web' trails on health information

Cruising the Internet's World Wide Web for health-related news can be exciting, frustrating and confusing — even for experienced World Wide Web surfers.

Recently, doctors from the American Medical Association warned consumers that medical and health-related information on the Internet needs to be approached with caution. The amount of information on the web is overwhelming.

The biggest concern is deciphering what information is credible. There is no regulation of information, so it can be difficult to determine the age of information, whether supporting references or data have been cited, or whether the information is complete, accurate and balanced.

AMA physicians suggest standards for dispensing information on the web that can help decide the value of the information:

• Look for who wrote the material, their credentials and any organization with which they are affiliated.

• Is supporting data or documentation referenced at the bottom of the information.

• Is the information sponsored by advertising? If so, is this fully disclosed?

June is excellent time to gobble up turkey, too

June is loaded with surprises. Not only does it celebrate dairy products, but it also is National Turkey Month.

Properly prepared, turkey is an excellent source of high-quality, low-fat protein. To keep turkey and other poultry low in fat, it must be skinned. After removing skin, trim chunks of visible fat, too.

The microwave oven cooks skinned turkey until it is juicy and tender, rather than by conventional methods, where longer cooking dries it out and encourages it to stick to the pan.

Fresh turkey breast slices, tenderloins and 85 percent lean ground turkey are ready to microwave. To reduce fat, skin bone-in and boneless rolled turkey breast or ask the butcher to prepare a skin-free, boneless rolled breast.

Microwave skinned turkey breast for sandwich meat. It contains less sodium than deli products and costs less, too. Use the cooked breast in recipes for salads and casseroles.

Be a smart label reader when it comes to ground turkey. It can be excellent, dark meat, rather than all white meat, is used. The same rule applies to turkey hot dogs and bologna.

Turkey Marsala, excellent for both family and guests, can be made in 30 minutes. Serve with a garden salad, brown rice with toasted pine nuts, and dinner rolls that can be warmed in seconds in the microwave.

Certified family and consumer scientist Barb Gray specializes in microwave cooking.

TURKEY MARSALA

8 oz. fresh mushrooms, sliced
½ cup julienne-cut carrot (1½-by-½-inch strips)
1 tbsp. snipped fresh parsley

½ cup low-fat, low-sodium chicken broth
3 tbsp. marsala wine
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt
2 turkey tenderloins (6 to 8 oz. each)

In 8-inch square baking dish, combine mushrooms, carrot and parsley.

In 1-cup measure, combine broth, wine, cornstarch and salt. Pour over vegetables. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on high power 6 to 9 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until vegetables are tender and sauce is thickened and translucent.

Remove tenderloins from sauce. Slice each diagonally in 9 pieces. Spoon sauce over turkey.
Makes 6 servings.

Recipes

MU SHU PIZZA

1 roll (10 oz.) refrigerated pizza dough
1 tsp. oil
1 lb. mushrooms, sliced (about 5 cups)
1 cup sliced sweet red bell pepper
½ cup sliced onion
2 tsp. minced garlic
3 cups coleslaw mix (from 16 oz. pkg.) or shredded cabbage
¼ tsp. salt
Pinch ground red pepper
½ cup sliced radish
8 tbsp. Oriental hoisin or plum sauce

Preheat oven to 425°. Coat large baking sheet with non-stick cooking spray. On baking sheet, roll pizza dough starting from center into 15-by-10-inch rectangle. Bake in preheated oven about 8 minutes until golden. Cut in 8 squares.

In large nonstick skillet, heat oil. Cook mushrooms, bell pepper, onion and garlic, stirring occasionally, about 6 minutes until most of liquid evaporates.

Add cabbage, salt and ground pepper. Cook, stirring often, about 3 minutes until coleslaw is wilted and heated through. Add radish. Cook and stir about 1 minute until warm.

Spread each pizza crust square with 1 tablespoon hoisin sauce, then with ½ cup mushroom mixture. Serve immediately.

Yields 4 portions. Additional toppings: Leftover diced or shredded pork or chicken; cooked small shrimp; crumbled crispy Chinese or rice noodles.

ASPARAGUS RISOTTO

8 fresh spears asparagus, thin to medium thickness
5 cups chicken stock or low-sodium broth
1 tsp. olive oil
¼ cup minced shallot or white onion
½ cup dry white wine
1½ cups uncooked medium-grain rice, such as arborio
1 tbsp. unsalted butter
2 tsp. grated parmesan cheese
Freshly ground pepper

Trim asparagus of tough bottom stem portion. Cut off tips. Cut 4 or 5 stalks in ½-inch lengths to make ¾ cup.

In medium saucepan, bring stock just to boil. Add remaining asparagus spears. Reduce heat. Simmer 30 minutes. Transfer broth to 1-quart heat-proof pan and discard asparagus.

In small Dutch oven or deep heavy pot, heat oil over medium heat. Sauté shallot about 4 minutes until translucent.

Stir in rice. Cook and stir 2 to 3 minutes until grains are shiny and opaque.

Pour in wine. Cook 1 to 2 minutes until evaporated, stirring to keep rice from sticking. Stir in ½ cup hot broth, continuing to stir about 2 minutes until it is almost absorbed.

Add another ½ cup broth and ½-inch pieces of asparagus. Stirring constantly, keep adding liquid, ½ cup at a time, as rice absorbs broth.

After 12 minutes or when grains are softened but still crisp, add asparagus tips. Continue stirring and adding liquid 15 to 20 minutes until grains are just al dente.

Stir in butter and cheese. Season to taste with pepper. Serve immediately.

Zucchini blossoms give head start on garden

Summer gardens are planted. Now the planter eagerly waits for the warm weather and sunshine to produce one of the home gardener's favorite crops, zucchini.

As anyone who ever has grown zucchini knows in the last 20 years of its popularity, one small plant seems to produce more than is consumed easily by one family.

Zucchini is as versatile to use as a potato. Plain or stuffed, it can be eaten raw, fried, grilled, stewed, or baked. It is so mildly flavored that it can be incorporated into muffins, bread and other sweet desserts.

Like most varieties of summer squash, zucchini is a vegetable low in fat and calories. Even though its flesh is light green rather than orange, it is a good source of beta-carotene. It also provides a moderate amount of vitamin C and potassium.

The flesh of the zucchini is usually the part eaten, but its blossoms are also edible. Zucchini blossoms are the most frequently eaten of the edible squash blossom varieties.

The colorful, orange blossoms of the zucchini plant are tender and moist with a mild peppery flavor. They can be eaten raw in salads or braised and added to a variety of fillings. Zucchini blossoms are similar to the flesh. They contain few calories, no fat or cholesterol, and a small amount of beta-carotene and vitamin C.

For maximum crispness, the fragile blossoms should be rinsed and dried, wrapped tightly in a paper towel and stored in a refrigerator 1 to 2 hours before use.

Like applesauce, grated zucchini, when mature, can be used to replace fat and calories in baked goods.

Keep it a secret that these brownies are made with zucchini and whole wheat flour. Everyone from children to grandparents will adore the moist and chocolatey treat. They have much less fat than traditional brownies with the added benefit of more fiber. Just remember, that like all foods, they should be eaten in moderation.

Good Health

Year-round favorite draws tear and toast

If tears come to your eyes whenever you slice an onion, be glad your tears are not shed in vain. The very compounds that give onions their pungency, taste and smell have been identified as substances that also may fight cancer.

Known to scientists as organosulfides, these compounds are common to the entire allium family of onions, garlic, shallots, leeks and chives. They appear to influence the way toxic chemicals, including carcinogens in the environment, are processed by the body. Researchers believe organosulfides turn dangerous products into less harmful ones, thus helping to avert cancer and other health problems.

Onions from the field this time of year are sweet and fresh. They are meant to be used, not kept.

They are traditional ingredients in soup, salad and stew, but they also are delicious in larger quantities — baked or stuffed.

Try baking 4 yellow onions in ¼ cup water in 350° oven for 1 hour, basting every 10 minutes with a glaze made from ¼ cup honey, 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard, 1 tablespoon butter (softened), 1 tablespoon red wine vinegar, ¼ teaspoon paprika, pinch of cloves, ½ teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

For stuffed onions, peel and cut an "X" in the bottom of the onions. Boil them 8 minutes, then drain. When they are cool enough to handle, slice off the tops and carefully remove the insides, leaving a double layer of the shell for filling. Stuff the onions with a mixture of cooked spinach and mashed potatoes seasoned with a bit of grated nutmeg, salt and white pepper. Sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 400° oven 20 minutes.

Onion adds subtle taste to Poached Onion-Lemon Fish, which features savory hints of citrus and herbs.

Registered dietitian Melanie Polk is director of nutrition education for the American Institute for Cancer Research in Washington, D.C.

POACHED ONION-LEMON FISH

- 2 medium (8 to 10 oz. each) onions, peeled, sliced ¼ inch thick
- 1 large lemon, thinly sliced

- 2 cups water
- ½ cup white wine
- 1 small bay leaf
- ¼ tsp. whole peppercorns
- Salt, if desired
- 1½ lb. fish fillet, cut in serving-size pieces
- Fresh dill
- ½ cup plain low-fat yogurt
- ½ tsp. dried dill

Place onion and lemon in large skillet. Add water, wine, bay leaf and peppercorns. Bring to boil. Simmer, covered, 10 minutes.

Remove 1 slice lemon and 1 slice onion from skillet for each piece of fish. Arrange fish over remaining onion and lemon mixture in skillet. Top each one with reserved onion and lemon. Simmer, covered, 5 to 8 minutes until fish flakes with fork.

Transfer fish and onion to serving platter. Garnish with fresh dill. Combine yogurt and dried dill. Stir in 1 tablespoon poaching liquid. Season to taste with salt. Serve as sauce for fish.
